JUDGE STUART IN STEVEN CASE HITS AT 'SLAVE LABOR'

agents. These agents oftentimes are not prepared, and sometimes do not intend, to fulfill the promises which they make to those whom they persuade to leave their present employment and go elsewhere. The dictates of self-preservation as well as a proper regard for the welfare of unwary and easily led persons of the laboring class would suffice to impel the legislature to defensive action. Without recapitulating the various requirements of section 2 of Act 48 which are imposed as prerequisites to the obtaining of a license, we hold that they are reasonable requirements and within the discretion of the legislature to prescribe.

As is shown by the above quotation, the courts take judicial knowledge of historical and political conditions. Under this opinion and in his efforts to supply cheap labor for the plantations, the present governor and appointee, President Wilson has, according to his own reports, been instrumental in shipping into these islands in the last few years no less than 18,225 Filipinos, out of which comes the great majority of criminals in the territory. The Filipinos by their written contracts are compelled to work upon the plantations at a price that the Hawaiian cannot live on. This is the reason he is employed, and not that there is not sufficient Hawaiian labor to till these lands. The poor slave labor has taken the place of the native inhabitants on the lands, and the statutes sought to be enforced here are for the sole purpose of holding fast to this peon class. In other words, the Hawaiian has lost his lands and they have passed to the plantations, and now he is refused the permission of working for the owner of the lands at a reasonable compensation.

Years ago, there was a statute under which contract laborers on plantations were held criminally for any violation of their contracts, and compelled to work out fines. In short, it was nothing but slavery or continuous involuntary servitude. That statute became so obnoxious to the United States that it was abandoned. By the Organic Act, Section 10, it was provided:

"That no suit or proceeding shall be maintained for the specific performance of any contract heretofore or hereafter entered into for personal labor or services, nor shall any remedy be granted to be enforced by such contract, except in a civil suit or proceeding instituted solely to recover damages for such breach."

It will not be claimed that any criminal proceeding would be allowable against the Filipinos violating their contracts, which were employed by the defendant; but the theory is that the territory may do indirectly what it cannot do directly, and punish the man criminally who employs the Filipino when it cannot punish the Filipino. I cannot believe this. There were constitutional provisions, supporting the majority opinion, in the Dred Scott case; a case that directly furnished cause for the great Civil War in the United States; but the trend is entirely the other way in the Craig case. I think the Craig case is more destructive of the personal liberty of an American citizen than the Dred Scott case.

The argument used that the right exists to go to foreign lands and employ there cheap labor, which in turn drives the Hawaiian from the plantations, is not satisfactory. The result of such employment has been further demonstrated in the virtual prohibition of the coming in from the mainland of United States citizens to Hawaii.

Much is said against the planters on account of these laws that I do not think is justifiable. I am inclined to think that upon a direct vote of the planters alone, they would disapprove of these laws. It is the agents who are working for the planters and wish to make a great showing of what they are doing, who are the real authors of these laws. The planter must see that the laws are fast bringing ruin to the most beautiful spot on earth.

I have thought it necessary to say this much in order that the court's decision might not be mistaken in rendering judgment against the defendant in accordance with this agreement. I can see no reason why three of these cases should have a one dollar fine and one of them should have a hundred dollar fine, unless it is to carry the impression that the court specially approves of that case, which I do not.

The fine in each case will be one dollar; the costs in each case will be remitted as per the agreement on file. A copy of this decision will be today sent to the president of the United States.

STRONG MARKET REFLECTS INVESTORS' CONFIDENCE

Heavy trading between boards was the feature of the day at the local stock exchange. Such transactions tallied 3445 shares with heaviest dealings in Olaa and McBryde. At the session the total of shares sold was increased to 3780, with Ewa and Onomea most sought.

Whatever changes in quotations were noted proved to be advances.

SIGNING SUGAR BILL BY WILSON CAUSE FOR JOY

Smiles and beaming countenances were much in evidence about Merchant street this morning. They were occasioned by the receipt of cablegrams that the sugar bill had received the sanction and the signature of the president and that another bugaboo had been laid to rest.

Sentiment was all optimistic in the brokers' offices and in the vicinity of the stock exchange this morning. There is no fly in the ointment. There was apparently nothing left to bar the continued march to prosperity of sugar producers in particular and the islands in general.

There has been a tendency on the part of sugar companies to await developments on the tariff situation before making distribution of profits that have been accruing and the reason for their hesitancy has now been removed, is the prevailing opinion. Brokers optimistically state that special meetings and extra dividends may now be expected in a number of instances and in the near future.

J. C. ANDERSON CLEARS ACCOUNT OF ESTATE FUND

Thirteen hundred dollars, representing the funds of the Lee Wai estate in their entirety, were paid to Clerk Henry Smith of circuit court today by John C. Anderson, administrator, thus straightening the irregularity in the affairs of the estate, which has been under scrutiny by court officials for the last few days.

Asked today why he made the payment into court, Anderson said: "Just to show that I had the money and that none of it had been spent."

Circuit Judge W. L. Whitney, who was investigating the irregularity, stated that Anderson paid in all the money in the Lee Wai estate, and that the accounts of the estate are now correct.

Judge Whitney added that he has reached no decision on the status of Anderson as probate officer.

Saved Her Life

The unqualified indorsement of Fruitola and Traxo in a recent letter from Mrs. S. Grindle, 5918 Mignonne St., Pittsburg, Pa., will be of interest to other sufferers from stomach and intestinal troubles. Mrs. Grindle says:

"The doctors had given me up, saying the only hope left was an operation. I tried Fruitola and passed hundreds of gall-stones with the first two bottles. Am now feeling better than I have for years past. I will be glad to tell any sufferer how it has helped me, for I owe my life to it."

Fruitola possesses properties that act directly upon the intestinal parts, softening the congested waste and disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and expels the accumulation to the great relief of the patient. Traxo is a tonic-alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices, to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It serves to build up the weakened, run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through representative druggists. In Honolulu they can be obtained at Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd.
